Textiles & Gender: Production to wardrobe from the Orient to the Mediterranean in Antiquity

organised by Mary Harlow and Cécile Michel

secretary: Louise Quillien

4-6 October 2018

Salle des Conférences, Bâtiment Pierre Grappin, Université Paris Nanterre

The conference will examine the gender division of work in the production of textiles, as well as attitudes to dress and gender across the Near East and Mediterranean culture in Antiquity (c. 3000 BCE-300CE), tracing both cross-cultural and culturally specific associations. This conference is organised within the frame of the International Research Network (GDRI) Ancient Textiles from the Orient to the Mediterranean (ATOM). Full programme and abstract can be downloaded from: <http://www.mae.parisnanterre.fr/gdri-atom-news-and-events/>
